At a general membership meeting of the Washington, Carter, Unicoi, and Johnson County Homebuilders Association held last evening at the Johnson City Country Club, T. C. Lewis & Co. President Cory Lewis was announced to serve a two-year term on the Board of Directors starting in 2010. Gerald Thomas (Thomas Construction), Terry Orth (Orth Homes), Tom Mozen (Mozen, Etc), Paul Walton (Positive Environments), and Joe Grandy (Ferguson) were among the others announced. Lewis served a one year term on the board in 2008 and has since served as the founding Chairman of the Northeast Tennessee Green Building Council. Asked about serving on the board, Lewis said, "I feel like it's just another opportunity to help our association. I think we have a great group and some new energy. The industry has faced some tough times, and we've experienced some of that locally. It's going to be important to help lead the builders of this region through this turning point in the industry with everything going green and becoming more technologically advanced." Lewis and the others announced will be officially voted into their roles at the December General Membership Meeting.
